Dallas, Texas

DALLAS – Neiman Marcus Inc., the nation's premier luxury retailer, is congratulating the Dallas office of Andrews Kurth LLP on more than a quarter-century of working for businesses in North Texas and around the state.

Andrews Kurth, a business law firm with offices around the world, opened in Dallas on April 1, 1982. The firm has grown from five attorneys to more than 400 attorneys, including approximately 90 working in Dallas today.

Neiman Marcus is a client of the firm's Dallas office.

In addition to Neiman Marcus, attorneys from the Dallas office of Andrews Kurth represent a number of other significant area businesses. The firm has played an important role in numerous major local projects, including American Airlines; Northpark Center; West Village; DFW Airport; Zale Lipshy University Hospital; and St. Paul University Hospital.

Lawyers from the firm's Dallas office helped protect the NCAA's trademark rights to the term "March Madness," including winning a federal case in which a cybersquatter claimed the term "March Madness" was part of the public domain.

"It's a privilege to work with a company such as Neiman Marcus," says Mark Solomon, Managing Partner of Andrews Kurth's Dallas office. "In all our client relationships, we strive to adopt their perspective first. You just can't do the work we do unless you first have looked at things the client's way."

Beyond business, the firm also takes pride in its ongoing commitment to Dallas-area community organizations, including Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA); Gilda's Club; and the North Texas Food Bank.

For more than a century, Andrews Kurth has built its practice on the belief that "straight talk is good business." Real answers, clear vision and mutual respect define the firm's relationships with clients, colleagues, communities and employees. With more than 400 lawyers and offices in Austin, Beijing, Dallas, Houston, London, Los Angeles, New York, The Woodlands and Washington, D.C., Andrews Kurth represents a wide array of clients in all areas of business law.
