

Articles

"SEC in Transition: Key Enforcement Issues Affecting Public Companies"

Spencer C. Barasch

Texas Lawyer

July 18, 2005

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission is in the midst of major transition. Critical changes include President George W. Bush's June 2 nomination of U.S. Rep. Chris Cox, R-Calif., to replace departing Chairman William Donaldson, the appointment of a new director of the Division of Enforcement, and filling a vacancy at the helm of the division, which oversees the mutual fund industry.

To read more click the .pdf below.